While the cybersecurity discussion is not new to NEMA, it's time to get into the details and work through important questions. What truly is the threat at this time? How does this impact emergency managers and how are we working with our governors? How will the consequences be managed if the Stafford Act cannot help? Join us for a workshop to delve into these issues and explore ways to help manage one of the biggest threats of our time. Participants include a panel of nationally recognized subject matter experts (and curriculum) provided by the Center for Homeland Defense and Security, state directors from all corners of the country, private sector members, and representatives from partner associations.

Model Partnerships with Faith Based Organizations Salon GH

In times of crisis, many people look to faith-based organizations for guidance and support. In addition, congregations often play an integral role in local readiness and recovery, providing shelter and supplies before and after disasters. Launched in January 2014, Praise & Preparedness is a statewide program from the Georgia Emergency Management Agency that provides faith-based organizations with the tools they need to take action to prepare for a disaster. Learn how this model program can be emulated in your state or community.

Moderator: Charley English, Director, Georgia Emergency Management Agency and NEMA President

Presenter: Janay Stargell, Faith Based/NGO Coordinator, Georgia Emergency Management Agency
